How to navigate this document

You are viewing this document via ADOBE READER © .

A sample show report is shown in the left figure.

Notice the word "Bookmarks", shown inside the red circle. When you click on a bookmark—there is one for each show result—you will be taken to that page in this document.

How to navigate this document

How do you get to the Bookmarks?

Take your mouse cursor and put it over the vertical divider bar (shown in red) alongside the tabs. You will see the cursor change from a hand to a double vertical bar.

When you have the double vertical bar on the vertical divider bar alongside the tabs, drag your mouse to the right.

You can also double-click the vertical divider bar alongside the tabs.

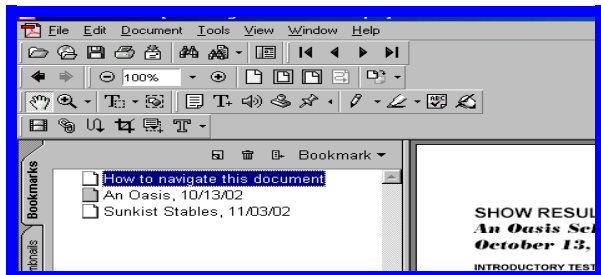

Now you have two 'windows': the bookmark window on the left of your screen, and the document window on the right.

How to navigate this document

If you click on any of the “Bookmarks,” they act like hyperlinks on a webpage. The link will take you to the start of that show’s score results.

You can adjust your two window sizes by dragging on the window divider bar.

If you don’t want to see the bookmarks, you can navigate the document by using the arrow keys around the page number at the bottom of the document window.

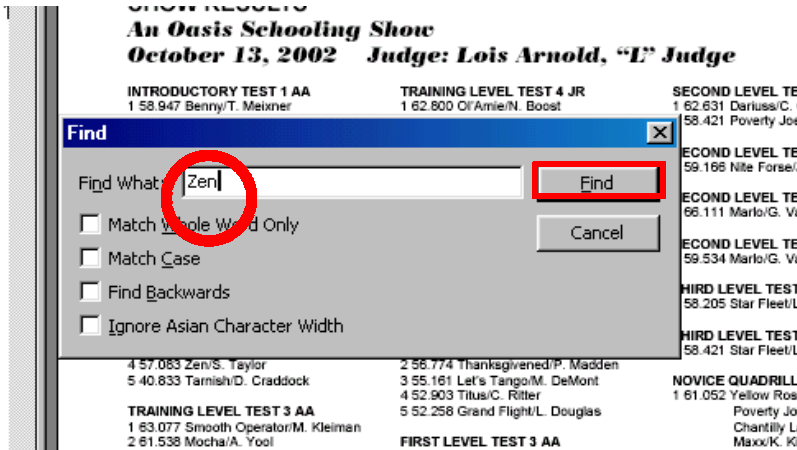

Another nice feature of ADOBE Reader © is the ability to search. Depending on the presentation of your menu bar(s) at the top of the screen, you will find an image that looks like binoculars (encircled in red above). If you click on the binoculars, you can do a FIND on your name or your horse’s name or whatever.

es, 11

Say you wanted to look for a horse named ZEN. You click on the binoculars, and the dialog box shown to the left appears. Fill in what you want to find. Then click on [Find].

The result(s) will be highlighted in blue.

ENJOY!
