

INSTITUTE FOR JUSTICE POTENTIAL CASE FORM

If you believe you may have a case that could be handled by the Institute for Justice, you must fill out the form below. Due to the large volume of potential case forms that we receive, the Institute for Justice will no longer respond to each and every potential case. We will address only the small amount of potential cases that fit within our core areas and that our limited resources allow. Please refrain from contacting us regarding the status of your case form. We thank you in advance and wish you the best of luck.

Return this form to:

Case Investigations
Institute for Justice
Suite 200
1717 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20006

1. Please provide the following contact information:

Name: _____

Address: _____

City: _____

State and Zip: _____

Telephone: _____

Fax: _____

Email: _____

Date: _____

2. Is your potential case against a government body or agency?

If your answer is "No" (and your case is against a private party), STOP. The Institute can not help you. We only sue governmental bodies.

3. Briefly summarize your dispute or case with a governmental body.

4. Did the government give you any explanation for its actions against you?
If so, what was it?

5. Why do you think the government has taken these actions against you?
6. Is your case currently in litigation? If so, in what court or agency?
7. If your case is already in litigation, what is the next important date or deadline and what is scheduled for that date?
8. Have you consulted and/or retained an attorney? If so, who is the attorney and what is his or her address and telephone number? Can we contact him or her if we want to learn more about your case?

8. What do you want the Institute for Justice to do for you?