Well seriously; In the 90's and beyond the year 2000 the medical field will continue to grow. No matter what happens with our society and planet, one thing you can be sure of is people will always get sick. Therefore, there will always be a need for people in the medical field. This includes everyone from the secretary at the dentists office to a heart surgeon at the Cleveland Clinic. New discoveries have brought medicine to the forefront of technology. More than ever there are tremendous opportunities in this field. Medical Careers Club is a group that meets to listen to guest lecturers and participate in medically related activities. Last year we grew in size to around forty members. This we plan on having more speakers, a bloodmobile, and hopefully a field trip. A club like MCC is also a good idea for college entrance.
