

Activists –1.) A group determined to have their voice heard but do not necessarily know how to get it heard consistently and coherently by the rest of the nation 2.) Those lacking media savvy but not volume.

Bailout – Giving hundreds of millions of federal dollars to poorly run businesses that are going to fail so that their implosion is even grander.

Bribery – 1.) The act of giving funding to an individual for preference in contractual bidding. 2.) That in which Dick Cheney has engaged 3.) an impeachable offense.

Commander and Chief – 1.) The President of the United States 2.) A person who should be man enough to resign if he cannot even command good intel' from his own staff.

Conservative – 1.) A party which works to reduce government spending by effective means of fiscal control and wise investment. This applies to neither party. Republicans are dually excluded. 2.) In a more traditional sense, a conservative works to uphold the Constitution and its laws. This also applies to neither party. 3.) Any party which endorsed the Patriot Act, which removes the right of Habeas Corpus, or voted to support the War with Iraq without discussion or debate has ignored the principles of the Constitution. Any party or member who believes that it is the right of the executive branch to make international policy by rejecting signed treaties without a Congressional vote is also not a conservative.

Consolation Victory – Saying that your secondary objective is now your primary objective when you fail to meet your actual primary objective. In the case of Iraq, freeing the Iraqi people of a Dictator was secondary to securing our nation against potential WMD.

Contradiction in Action – Saying one thing and doing another. Example, speaking out against a brutal dictatorship in Iraq while giving financial and military aid to brutal dictatorships in Tajikistan, Kazakhstan, and Algeria.

Democrat – 1.) A political party that presumably is concerned with the views and opinions of the majority of the population. Any individual who believes a poll of 1003 people represents the views of 280 million better than a few million marching on your front lawn, need not apply. 2.) A group with no core ideology (see Liberal 1)

Department of Homeland Security – 1.) $20 billion color chart 2.) Poor return on investment 3.) Job security for duct tape manufacturers everywhere.

Hypocrite – Any individual or party who believes that the lies that Clinton told, which got NO Americans killed or injured, constitute an impeachable offense, and the lies Bush told, which have currently gotten 200+ Americans killed and thousands injured, do not.

Liberal –1.) A group who is too weak to organize effectively; patsies 2.) In the context of the last two decades, a flagrant federal over-spender. In this case the term should apply to Republicans who have consistently raised the national debt by enormous amounts beyond Democratic spending.

Patriotism –1.) A term used to deter logic and reason in the face of adversity 2.) A term used to reduce discussion and open debate in a democratic institution 3.) A term used by pundits and other charlatans to encourage internal strife and distraction.

Republican – a political party that presumably works to preserve the Republic as an institution (see Conservative 2).

Security Threat – anyone who believes it is wise to have those who are responsible for a mistake be the ones to find the real problems which perpetuated that mistake, particularly in the area of intelligence failures which cost the lives of thousands of Americans.

Supply Sider – 1.) Any individual who believes that "it takes money to make money" only applies to those who have money and should not be used to try to help those who currently do not. 2.) Economic sub-geniuses

War on Drugs – A war lost by the United States in its support of the largest poppy supplier in the world, Afghanistan.