A GREAT HOLIDAY GIFT!

Tel: 215-527-1973

Stumped for a really creative and unique gift for the person who has everything?

The benefits of playing the piano are widely recognized by a large portion of the population, especially when it comes to children. But the fastest growing group of aspiring pianists in the U.S. today is not children, but adults aged 25-75+ years. Many adults are recapturing skills lost since grade school, finding an instrument for the first time or continuing the pursuit of a life-long musical learning process.

One of the most common phrases heard by piano retailers and teachers across the country is, "I wish my mother hadn't let me quit." But large numbers of adults have realized that it's not too late, and piano instruction has concentrated on adult learning far more than ever before during the past two decades.

"...research studies show that music making has positive effects on physical and emotional health." says MTNA Executive Director, Gary L. Ingle.

Can't think of something to give as a gift to that person who has everything? Your six-year old granddaughter can not keep her hands off your antique piano? Know someone who keeps promising himself or herself piano lessons but never actually starts taking lessons?

Give a gift certificate package of piano or flute lessons! Each package include three (3) lessons, a beginning age appropriate music book and is tastefully wrapped. Lessons can be given at the studio or at the student's home. Assistance in finding a keyboard or piano can be worked out. Orchestrated Events students are also offered special students rates for rentals.
