Setup

Pick two teams to go head to head, and fill out your lineups on the scoresheet. Each team receives 8 skill assignments to give to individual players. All of the skill assignments listed below must be used within your starting lineup for a total of 8. A player may possess two assignments if you wish. Rate your lineup by placing the appropriate notation beside a player's name on the scoresheet.

- 1) star hitter (H)
- 2) star slugger (S)
- 3) star runner (R)
- 4) star fielder (F)
- 5) poor hitter (H-)
- 6) weak hitter (S-)
- 7) slow runner (R-)
- 8) poor fielder (F-)

Once a player has a skill assignment, he cannot transfer it to another player. There is one additional skill assignment available for an ace pitcher (X). You may, however, choose not to start one.

Make any pitcher a poor hitter as well (H-), so there will be two poor hitters if a pitcher is in the lineup.

Game Play

Roll the dice for each player who comes up to bat, reading the colored die first and the white die second.

If a result occurs on the Batting chart which displays an image of a ballplayer, the inning is considered finished with no further scoring. Draw an X in the box on the scoresheet representing the current hitter's at-bat. When his team next comes up to bat, the next player in the lineup will hit.

If the color of a chart result corresponds to the color of the skill assignment of the player who is currently up to bat, the result changes to the one shown on the bottom of the Batting chart. For example, if the star slugger is up and the dice number he rolls corresponds to a blue result, switch the result to a homerun! An ACE pitcher also changes results—in fact, an ACE pitcher's effect on the play (a strikeout) always supersedes all others.

To see which fielder or area a batted ball goes to when it is not specified, check the Direction charts at the bottom of the scoresheet. X out each result in order as they are used. A batting result followed by a + means you should skip over one box this time; a batting result followed by a ++ means you should skip over two boxes this time.

On RARE PLAY results, roll the dice again and consult the RARE PLAY #1 chart. On ERROR results, roll again and consult the ERROR chart on the right side of the Batting chart.

If a CHANCE result occurs, you must choose whether to have the lead runner try to take an extra base on a single or double, or tag and advance to 3rd or home on a fly out. Roll the dice again and consult the Chance chart.

If the word endurance appears after a chart result, a starting pitcher is now said to be tired or ineffective if, before the current batter, he had already given up 4 runs (earned or unearned) or pitched 8 innings. Place an E beside a pitcher's name on the scoresheet when his endurance limit has been reached.

A relief pitcher who gets an endurance result is tired/ineffective after giving up 2 runs or pitching 4 innings.

An ace reliever who gets an endurance result is tired/ineffective after giving up 1 run or pitching 2 innings.

A tired or ineffective pitcher gives up a base-clearing double on any ballplayer image result shown on the Batting chart!

Team Ratings

If one team won 8-14 games more than another during the regular season, they get an extra STAR HITTER in their lineup.

If one team won 15 or more games more than another during the regular season, they get an extra STAR HITTER in their lineup and the opponent must replace their own STAR HITTER with a POOR HITTER.

In addition, use the chart below to determine a team's ability to use an Ace starter or reliever.

	The team should start an Ace pitcher....	The team should have one (and only one) Ace reliever available....
team won 100+ games during the year	No more than once every 3 games	No more than 3 out of every 4 games
team won 90-99 games during the year	No more than once every 4 games	No more than every other game
team won 80-89 games during the year	No more than once every 5 games	No more than once every 3 games
team won 70-79 games during the year	No more than once every 6 games	No more than once every 4 games
team won less than 70 games during the year	No more than once every 7 games	No more than once every 5 games

Strategy

Consult the proper action charts to bunt or steal. Issue intentional walks as you see fit. Change pitchers whenever you like, but one and only one reliever per game may be considered an ace.

Make other lineup substitutions as you like, but any player who comes into the game must be assigned a negative skill assignment of your choice (H-, S-, R-, F-.)

* CHANCE *		Runners may not try for an extra base on an error. Runners behind the lead runner advance behind him on outfielder throws only when dictated on the chart.
2	Runner caught in a rundown! Roll again. 2-9 he's tagged out, 10-12 he advances to the next base safely!
3	Runner is thrown OUT by a mile! Runners move up behind him! What a throw! (Poor fielder: SAFE!)
4	Runner OUT! (Star runner is SAFE!)
5	Runner is SAFE unless trying to advance on any ball hit to left field, in which case he's OUT! (Star fielder: he's OUT!)

7	Runner is SAFE! The runner just beats a good throw! (Slow runner is OUT!) Runners move up behind him.

10	Runner is SAFE, but the runner behind him is thrown OUT trying to move up behind him!
11	The ball is thrown away! Runner is safe, advances one more base on the error, others move up behind him! (Star fielder: he's OUT!)
12	Runner is SAFE, the fielder loses the ball on contact from the runner! Other runners move up behind him! (Slow runner is OUT!)

STOLEN BASE attempts of 2nd and 3rd		SACRIFICE BUNT attempts
2	Ball thrown away! Runner safe, advances one more base on the error, others move up behind him!	2	Batter pops out, lead runner is doubled off base!
3	Runner picked off base, he's OUT!	3	DOUBLE PLAY, runner out at 2nd, batter out at 1st, others advance! (No force situation: lead runner tagged out, batter safe at 1st, others advance!)
4	Runner OUT! Great throw! (Catcher is poor fielder: SAFE!)	4	Consult ERROR table! (Any outfield error instead becomes a muffed grounder by the third baseman, batter safe at 1st, others advance.)
5	Runner SAFE! That's a bad call!	5	Good bunt, batter out at 1st by inches, others advance! (SQUEEZE PLAY: Runner on 3rd out at home in a collision and a cloud of dust, batter safe at 1st, others advance!)
6	Runner SAFE by a mile! (Catcher is star fielder: he's OUT!)	6	Good bunt, batter out at 1st, others advance! (Star fielder: lead runner is thrown out, batter safe!)

10	Runner OUT on an incredibly close play!	10	Runner thrown out at lead base, batter safe at first!
11	Runner caught in a rundown! Roll again. 2-9 he's tagged out, 10-12 he advances to the next base safely!	11	Batter pops out! (Poor fielder: Out at first, others advance.)
12	Runner is safe stealing but he over-slides the base and is tagged out!	12	Batter strikes out! (SQUEEZE PLAY: Strikeout and runner on third is OUT at home, double play!)

STEALING HOME 2-3) The runner is SAFE!! 4-8) The runner is OUT! 9-12) Star runner only is safe!
There is one big advantage to trying to steal home. Regardless of the outcome, it saps the relief pitcher's stamina totally and he must be removed from the game!
(Relievers only.)
