

MY MEMORIES OF ST. JOSEPH SCHOOL

I have many memories at St. Joe and most of them are pleasant. I don't have many in the first couple of years that I was here. But the last couple of years I remember a little better so I will have more. These are my memories at St. Joe.

My first memories start at kindergarten. I remember the books that we used to read, and I remember counting pennies. In first grade I remember the butterfly area, where the butterflies were kept. In second grade I remember making the apple butter and being disappointed that we couldn't go to the farm. In third grade I remember how Mrs. Seufert scared me, but she taught me about the solar system. In fourth grade I remember trying to guess the "mystery animal" that was hard. I also remember building a kite. These are my first five years that I don't really remember too many memories but I do remember some.

In fifth grade I first started to play sports but I only played volleyball. In sixth grade we started switching classes and we built our submarine. I remember worrying about if I was late or if I was doing something right because we only had forty-five minutes to do math and science in. I remember also going to the dance and getting soda and beer split on me. Then afterwards going out to eat at Plank Road Inn, and I ordered a hot chocolate but I didn't want it so we put a bunch of different stuff in it.

In seventh grade we went to the Cathedral and got ready for Confirmation. I was so excited because we had our sixth grade teacher Mrs. Rogers as our seventh grade teacher too. It was a very busy year. This was the first year that I played basketball.

Eighth grade was the best school year ever! All the teachers were more lenient with us. We went to a Cardinal Baseball game, Jefferson City, and the Art Museum. Soon we will be going on an eighth grade trip. In Social Studies we are doing the Civil War. It is a very fun time to study. In Math we are working on Geometry. That is pretty tough. In Science we made doughnuts that was fun.

This is our last year. Soon we will be leaving and it is going to be a very sad thing. Soon we will also have a party and that should be fun. And you can't forget about graduation. That will be very sad. So good- bye to everyone.
