Stimulus for Settlement

Homelessness was the stimulus in launching the settlement of the Great Plains. The Homestead Act of 1862 offered up to 160 acres of unoccupied public land to each homesteader on payment of a nominal fee after three years of residence.

In the first five years that the law was in effect, settlers rushed into Minnesota faster than any other state—more than 60,000 homesteaders lived there by 1880. In 1976 Congress abolished the law. Only in Alaska does it survive, under a state-directed pro-

By Dorothy Lewis
Summit

The Summit Avenue home of political gadfly Sharon Scaarella Anderson stood empty on Friday, curtains and drapes gone, the usual display of signs missing from the yard.

Anderson and her husband, James, were evicted from their home at 1038 Summit Ave. Thursday for failure to pay property taxes of more than $10,000.

Under the supervision of an Hannay County sheriff's deputy, the Andersons' furniture was loaded into a moving van furnished by the new owner and the couple packed their four dogs, canary and clothing into their car and drove away.

Hannay County sheriff's deputy Sgt. William Hixson said the furniture was placed in storage.

The home was sold last year for taxes due, according to county tax officials.

Sharon Anderson, 69, had contested the county did not give her proper notice of the delinquent taxes and refused to let her pay them. She took the matter to court, but a Hannay County District Court jury found against her. The Minnesota Supreme Court turned down her appeal on Tuesday.

The Andersons owed $8,514 in back taxes from 1977 through 1984 plus costs, according to the county real estate tax department. The taxes this year total $3,788. The home is valued at $145,000.

-payment of taxes

Sharon Anderson has charged that their home was overvalued by county assessors and has called for the abolition of property taxes.

In 1987, she claimed she was being harassed by the city and county on the various houses she owns in St. Paul, including the residence on Summit Avenue.

She has run unsuccessfully for a variety of public offices, ranging from the St. Paul City Council to her current campaign for the U.S.

Senate seat held by Dave Durenberger.

She has filed dozens of lawsuits against the city and in 1984 tried to run for municipal court judge but was turned down by election officials because she wasn't licensed to practice law in the state, a requirement for that office.

In 1988 she ran in the state Independent-Republican primary for Minnesota attorney general and received 71,050 votes.

No. 81778.

Supreme Court of Minnesota,
Aug. 9, 1994.

Delighted proceeding in which bond to have voter was directed to Secretary of State in order to determine eligibility of certain candidates for judicial office. The Supreme Court held that members of firm in Helmholz who had filed with Secretary of State to be candidates for office of Associate Justice of State Supreme Court were to conduct from ballot to be used at primary and general election where individuals were not admitted or entitled to be admitted to practice as attorneys at law in the state and that filing for must be returned to each of the individuals questioned where filings were improperly accepted.

Order accordingly.

Yates, Todd, MacLaughlin, Yates and Scott, JJ., took no part in consideration or decision of government.

1. Judge that

"Qualified in the law" for purposes of constitutional provision fixing qualifications for judges of the Supreme Court means to be admitted or entitled to be admitted to practice as an attorney at law in state.
M.S.A. § 201.04, subd. 1.

The question stands not whether the other judicial nominations and elections.

2. Judge that

Candidates who were not admitted and entitled to be admitted to practice law in state were not eligible for office of Associate Justice of State Supreme Court. St.
S.A. § 201.04, subd. 1.

3. Election Court

Filing for must be returned to each of individuals affected where their filings of candidacy with Secretary of State for office of Associate Justice of State Supreme Court were improperly accepted.

M.S.A. § 201.04, subd. 1.

Opinion by the Court

Order to show cause issued by this Court directing Action L. Erdick, secretary of state, and all persons acting under his authority, and "Sharon L. Anderson, Esq., Helmholz" to all persons members of the firm of Minnesota, to refrain from placing the names of Sharon L. Anderson, Richard W.
Helmholz, David Helmholz, Frank H. Helmholz, and Michael Paul Helmholz on the ballots for the primary election to be held September 19, 1994, and the general election to be held November 7, 1994, as candidates for the office of associate justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Minnesota.
Indirect that said names be accepted from the ballots. Sharon L. Anderson, attorney general, Peter W. Hughes, solicitor general, and Thomas H. Jensen, solicitor assistant attorney general, appeared for and on behalf of the State of Minnesota. The appearance was made for as on behalf of the candidate. Filing of personal copies of the order "in show cause" filed by this court on July 19, 1994, upon each of the candidates has been filed with the clerk of this court. The matter was heard and considered by Chief Justice Robert J. Sharon,

Presidential Memo

The Importance of E-Government

Subject: Electronic Government's Role in Implementing the President's Management
Agenda

My administration's vision for Government reform is guided by three principles. Government should be citizen-centered, results-oriented, and market-based. These principles have been woven into the five Government-wide reform goals outlined in my Administration's Management Agenda: strategic management of human capital, budget and performance integration, competitive sourcing, expanded use of the internet and computer resources to provide Government services (Electronic Government or E-Government), and improved financial management. Effective implementation of E-Government is important in making Government more responsive and cost-effective.

Our success depends on agencies working as a team across traditional boundaries to better serve the American people, focusing on citizens rather than individual agency needs. I thank agencies who have actively engaged in cross-agency teamwork, using E-Government to create more cost-effective and efficient ways to serve citizens, and I urge others to follow their lead.

- President George W. Bush
