Has this problem to grow to epidemic proportions in Minnesota? Have you been a victim of fraud, possibly murder of a loved one,

In 1986, Dr. Victor Corbett murdered his patient Jane Dorothy Duchene, by discontinuing her insulin by two thirds, so she would die of insulin deficiency before her brother, Roger Krause, died of pancreatic cancer. Roger Krause had suddenly become terminally ill with pancreatic cancer, within one month of getting Jane to sign a will. Jane had to die before Roger, so Roger's wife Bessie could claim on this will, and so she did

Corbett was a family friend of the Krauses, and medical associate of their son, Bob, who is a pathologist and colleague of Corbett's.

Richard Hendrickson represented Bessie Krause, pictured bottom, right, in probate court, knowingly assisting her to profit from the crime of murder. He did this for about eight years.

He only dropped Bessie as a client when she had run up a $30,000.00 debt for legal fees, which he hoped to recover from the estate of Jane Duchene, or her only child, daughter, Mary Jane.

It does appear that closer scrutiny of Richard Hendrickson's legal practice, and the extent to which he is still associated with apparent milking of estates and subordinating criminal acts, in conjunction with estates and probates, possibly including the Berkovitz matter, is something that should be done by authorities in Hennepin County?

MINNEAPOLIS - Susan Rae Berkovitz went to a court hearing with the intention of killing her cousin and her cousin's lawyer using an antique revolver she purchased from a gun show, according to charges filed Wednesday.

Berkovitz, 52, of St. Paul, was arrested without incident Monday shortly after the fatal shooting of Shelley Joseph-Kordell, 56, of Minnetonka, and the wounding of attorney Richard Hendrickson, 53, of Crystal.

Prosecutors charged Berkovitz with one count of first-degree murder and one count of first-degree attempted murder Wednesday in the shooting at the Hennepin County Government Center.

Berkovitz was in the county jail in lieu of $2 million bail. Hennepin County Attorney Amy Klobuchar said prosecutors would bring the case before a grand jury within two weeks.

Joseph-Kordell died a few hours later from her injuries. Hendrickson was in satisfactory condition Wednesday at Hennepin County Medical Center, with a bullet still lodged in his neck, but family members said he was expected to recover fully.

The Smith & Wesson .38-caliber revolver was manufactured sometime between 1890 and 1910, and held five bullets, said Sheriff Patrick McGowan. Berkovitz told a deputy that she bought it at a gun show last summer, McGowan said.

Berkovitz and Joseph-Kordell had been in a long-running dispute over Berkovitz's father's estate.
