

Episode 54 - Oneness Experience

It was my last day in America before my return to Belgium. In a quest for more answers, I had taken the bus to Hood River to spend the afternoon with Paul. There was great comfort in our time together and still, nothing made sense. The unknown triggered uncertainty in me which brought up more questions than answers. We still had the Peruvian 2012 Prophecy event that night in Portland. Our time together wasn't over yet.

I hopped in the passenger seat of Paul's Red Ford Explorer, ready for our trip to Portland. I felt very good sitting in that car. I was sitting much higher than in my new Suzuki Cabriolet. This gave me a much better view of the road and surrounding area.

Driving away from Paul's home, I said my goodbyes to Hood River. I assumed I would never return there again. I felt so much gratitude for the many places, people and experiences that had come my way.

Driving through the heights and down the steep streets towards downtown Hood River, I was admiring the incredible view of the Columbia River in front of us. I recognized the many colorful kites of the wind surfers on the water I had observed close up that afternoon at the water front. What a view!

What happened next would become one of the most profound experiences in my life.

We traveled through the Columbia Gorge on Interstate 84, 60 miles of freeway that parallels the Columbia River. While listening to the CD "Medicine Woman", I found myself in a profound state of deep peace. I felt deeply connected with Paul. I felt at one with the Columbia River, the music and myself. There wasn't any separation between us and the nature around us. Everything blended into one deep sense of togetherness and peace. A profound oneness experience that reached far beyond my normal senses. I was not thinking, just being. My heart was in a state of oneness with all that is, a communion of self with all creation around me. During that magical hour I felt the most peaceful and expanded I had ever felt. It happened spontaneously and was unexpected. It also didn't feel extraordinary. It felt very natural and effortless and I didn't really realize what happened until I looked back at it afterwards.

I experienced my authentic nature and the true nature of reality.

We arrived in Portland at the gathering and reconnected with many of our friends from the Breitenbush retreat. The event was about to start. Two Peruvian elders walked onto the stage. Their purpose was to share about the ancient prophecies that came down through their lineage. The prophecies were about the year 2012. We were in the year 1998 and the elders were guided to share their sacred knowledge with the rest of the world. They expressed that it was time for everyone to become aware of the upcoming changes.

Peruvian Elders

They began:

“Something is about to change. Various ancient prophecies predict that change is coming to humanity”.

They further explained. “This hope is a certainty. We are at the beginning of a new era. In fact, we all have a lot of responsibility. I personally believe and feel that the predictions of the Mayans of 2012 are of great importance. We believe that people’s consciousness is going to change and expand. We hope that humanity will soon be able to unlock the mystery of what seems to be an increasingly frequent presence and encounters with those from other star systems.

Paul and I were sitting next to each other and were holding hands the whole evening long. We were like two teenagers, totally in the moment. Paul and I were listening to what the indigenous elders were sharing and at the same time we were aware of our connection and our last moments together. The message shared by the Peruvian elders touched us deeply and we truly enjoyed our last evening.

We didn't think ahead. We weren't thinking about the future. We knew that this was the last evening and the next morning we, Belgians, were taking the plane back home.

It was time now for Paul to drop me off at Jane's house. He first said goodbye to Eliane and Jane who then went into the house and left Paul and I by ourselves outside for our last goodbye. We hugged each other and thanked each other for the very powerful times together. We knew many powerful synchronicities had happened, but we had no idea what to do with it or where it was leading us. Paul is two decades older than me, nothing made sense.

We had each other's email and phone number and in that moment decided to stay in contact. But, my life was in Belgium, Paul was living in Oregon and raising his three beautiful children and his dog Beauregard. Besides all those synchronicities, nothing made sense. And that is where we left it.

Paul: Nothing made sense!
