

News Front Page

Forums

Blogs

Local

US

World

Business

Sports

Entertainment

Offbeat

Real Estate

Classifieds

Browse All Topix

Search Over 1 Year of Results!

Enter topic

'Ugly houses' big issue in race

The Minneapolis-St. Paul Pioneer Press

November 02, 2006

“We're 20 minutes from downtown Minneapolis and 10 minutes from downtown St. Paul

Richard Jezierski believes every American has the right to live in an ugly house without getting bothered by a government inspector.

That's one of the reasons the retired cop is running for a South St. Paul City Council seat. He wants to rein in what he sees as overly aggressive enforcement of ordinances regulating the appearance of private property, such as the ban on storing boats on lawns.

'If you're not creating a safety hazard or health hazard or conflicting with your neighbors' rights, then leave them alone and let them do what they want,' Jezierski said. 'They've got a right to have an ugly house. That's part of being an American. You're not free if you can't do what you want.'

Jezierski, 64, who retired from the South St. Paul force in 2000, is one of five candidates vying for three at-large seats. The race has only one incumbent, guaranteeing at least two new faces on the seven-member council.

The lone incumbent on the ballot is Tom Q. Seaberg, 43, group sales manager at Mystic Lake Casino Hotel in Prior Lake. Colleagues David Vujovich and Norm Nistler decided not to seek re-election.

The other three in the race are Micky Gutzmann, 49, who manages a local transportation company; Don Madland, 26, who owns South City Motors Inc. in South St. Paul; and Marilyn Rothecker, 67, who is retired and a former school board member.

All five want to attract more retail stores and restaurants. But the field is divided over City Hall attempts to get residents to abide by minimum-appearance standards governing their homes and yards in the older suburb.

Madland also thinks city inspectors are too picky. He cited the case of an elderly woman who got a warning letter from the city to replace her gravel driveway with a hard-surface one.

'The older people feel pushed around by the way the city's run now,' Madland said.

Seaberg disagreed. He said city inspectors need to enforce ordinances as a way to keep up property values.

'We respect property owners' rights, but we do have a certain set of standards we want people to adhere to,' Seaberg said. 'Do you cater to the 98 percent who keep their houses very nice and yards and everything up to snuff and looking good? Or do you throw up your hands and let those 2 percent do whatever they want to do? We make every effort to maintain quality housing stock. That's vital for us in the long run.'

Rothecker thinks the city needs an education campaign. Property-upkeep ordinances have been on the books for a long time, she said, but only recently enforced.

'People needed to be re-educated about the codes that are on the books and that you have to be responsible,' Rothecker said.

Aside from that issue, the candidates want to diversify a local economy dominated by the light-industrial, warehouse and manufacturing businesses in the 160-acre BridgePoint Business Park along the Mississippi River.

Nobody is promising an overnight solution to South St. Paul's dearth of retail and restaurants, but, Seaberg said, the city is on the right track.

With the coming sale of the 27-acre stockyards, the livestock trade that put the city on the map in 1887, the industrial park will add many more businesses in that space, Seaberg said. He thinks BridgePoint alone will have another 1,000 or so workers beyond the estimated 4,000 people working there now.

The additional employees, Seaberg said, will make it easier for the city to attract restaurants and retail shops.

'We're 20 minutes from downtown Minneapolis and 10 minutes from downtown St. Paul,' he said. 'We think we're in a good spot. We've got something to sell.'

Aside from economic development, Gutzmann has raised the issue of South St. Paul's changing demographics, specifically the need to help the city's growing number of Hispanics - estimated at 1,200 in the 2000 census - integrate better into civic life.

'We just need to reach out to them and say, 'Let's be together in all of this,' ' Gutzmann said. 'I don't think they've been invited in. Integration with the kids is happening in schools, but it's not happening on the parental level. We need to break down some of the language barriers and get them involved with' community activities and anti-crime initiatives, she said.

Brian Bonner can be reached at bbonner@pioneerpress.com or 651-228-2173.

Copyright © 2006 The Minneapolis-St. Paul Pioneer Press, All Rights Reserved.

Hosted by: Topix.net Publisher Platform \(beta\)

Ads by Goooooogle

Saint Paul MN Real Estate

Gain Free Access To Local Home Listings In Saint Paul, Minnesota!
www.e-Agent.com/Saint-Paul

St. Paul Employee Lawyer

Harassment, Discrimination, Wages. Fighting for Twin Cities' Employees www.NKA.com

Townhomes in Minnesota

Looking to buy/sell in Minnesota? Your one-stop shop for townhomes.
www.MnRealEstateTeam.com

Farmington MN Homes

Instantly View Thousands of Homes Search the Farmington MN mls
www.ZipRealty.com

Twin Cities Real Estate

Learn about Minneapolis & St. Paul neighborhoods and homes for sale www.movingtominnesota.com

More from PIONEER PRESS

Is Mike Hatch melting down?

The Minneapolis-St. Paul Pioneer Press o
Mike Hatch had three angry exchanges Thursday with newspaper and television reporters covering his gubernatorial campaign, but today he denied a published report that he had labeled one of the reporters a ...

Newcomers want their say

The Minneapolis-St. Paul Pioneer Press o
Of the seven candidates running for Centerville City Council, just one was living in the city eight years ago.

Mall of America ownership settled: TIAA-CREF bows out

The Minneapolis-St. Paul Pioneer Press o
A long-standing ownership logjam at the Mall of America appears to have ended. TIAA-CREF, one of the original owners of the Bloomington retail-entertainment complex, has divested its entire stake in the mall ...

Find more articles »

Comment on this story

Type in your comments to post to the forum

Name

Support 4 Alice

Comments

Type the numbers you see in the image on the right:

Post Comment

Please note by clicking on "Post Comment" you acknowledge that you have read the Terms of Service and the comment you are posting is in compliance with such terms. Be polite. Inappropriate posts will be removed by the moderator.

PRIOR LAKE, MN FORUMS »

1 comment in

Dodging cones, closures

"The stink emanating by the new construction is terrible (and I don't mean the election ...)" — Hwy 5 traveler

169 comments in

72% in survey say smoking ban should stay

"You are your perception of what compromise is. To me, i will go out of my way, even tho..." — starf--ker

18 comments in

High court lets stand tobacco verdict

"The young people graduating from public school (government indoctrination centers) are n..." — revlee

Start a discussion »

RELATED TOPIX

Prior Lake, MN

Prior Lake woman starts fund for murdered neighbor's children

Friday Oct 27 | Thisweek-online.com

South St. Paul, MN

1 dead in overnight crash on I-494

Saturday Oct 28 | The Minneapolis-St. Paul Pioneer Press

Site Map | Forum | Local News | Advertise | Newsfeeds | Privacy | Terms of Service | Weblog | About Us | Feedback | Email Alerts

© Copyright 2002-2006 Topix.net. All rights reserved.

rfe6 elapsed time: 0.330