
Company History

Bob Russ (#3296)

I have a personal curiosity about company histories and thought this might be interesting to others in the Club and it could help answer some outstanding questions about the users of perfins.

The Ohio-Kentucky Distilling Co. An Update

An example of this is found in the March 2006 issue of The Bulletin. Bob Szymanski writes about the user of Des. 13 being the Ohio-Kentucky Distilling Co. (OK Distilling) and also Ferdinand Westheimer & Sons Company. The Westheimer Company was a national trust of distilling companies. In searching information regarding the OK Distilling Company it appears as though the company became part of the Westheimer Trust. I do not completely believe the source of the information that is the basis of this opinion. However, there is some archival information in a library in Louisville, KY that could confirm this information. If any member in the Louisville area has the time and inclination to search for the information I can furnish its location. I am about 100 miles away and will try to get there sometime this summer, but the summer already looks busy.
