
Some Interesting Double Punches

Allan Oleksyn (#1908)

After collecting perfins for 40-50 years, my retirement now gives me more time for my passion. Over the years, I have tucked away certain perfins that are “different” or “interesting” in some way.

At right is SC #807 with U.S. perfins D130 (DuPont) and N129A (Northern Pacific Railway). What is the connection between these companies?

Here are two perfins that have Double Punches; i.e. punches from two different companies. How did this happen? Were these companies associated in some way? Is this a case of theft? Can any of the Club members shed any light on this?

At left is SC #558 with U.S. perfins J144 (Johnson Smith & Company) and S287.5 (Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway).
