

The Fire of Sight

There is a feeling in my soul, that I always feel.

This feeling I cannot control,
Yet I know it to be real.

It is not as uncertain as love,
and it rarely causes pain.
But depending on what I'm thinking of,
It can easily drive me insane.

The flame that burns so bright, is ignited by a spark of thought.
It gives off a beautiful light,
as these words are caught.

So for now, my imagination,
on this paper, I try to write,
until my blank frustration,
extinguishes my fire of sight.

By Eric Kay